Psychologists are very interested in intelligent animals. They do not only want to understand the challenges with games and training, they want to understand several levels that form a whole. The training of a few kinds of animals is possible. The normal food can be hidden between the layers. With a little of generosity and using your own reward, your pet will get its reward. The caregiver can be used for the normal feeding, particularly for dogs that have the capability of guiding their food. The rewardable plastic board prevents the caregiver from simply changing the search. The training board should be used regularly (without punishment) for optimal training with all the instructions.
